FROM THE PRESIDENT

LEARNING AND LEADERSHIP

Middlesex County College promotes lifelong learning to strengthen the economic, social and cultural life of the community. The five students profiled here represent the breadth of our educational programs and varied forms of service in the community. Like many of their classmates, these students learn and apply themselves in and out of our classrooms and laboratories. Their learning and service experiences are part of their preparation to be leaders in the future.

Our credit and non-credit programs, and our support services, all led by dedicated faculty and staff, prepare students for continued learning, advanced degrees, civic participation and rewarding careers. Our graduates are ready to remain on the cutting edge, to keep learning, to be leaders and to meet the needs of our ever-changing world.

Over five decades, tens of thousands of Middlesex alumni have gone on to earn advanced degrees, start careers and contribute to their communities. Many return to the campus to share their educational and career paths to help inspire students to reach for their dreams. Others come back for the new courses needed to maintain currency in their professions. Alumni also advocate for the College and provide financial support for students as others once did for them.

This year has been one of reflection while celebrating the College's founding 50 years ago. We also have been preparing for the future with new buildings and strategic plans to assure that every student has the opportunity to achieve success in life: family, career and community. Many will realize their full potential based on what they learned at Middlesex. Our dream is for every student to have the opportunity to rise to be a leader who helps to move our society forward. We know that for our graduates, SUCCESS STARTS HERE.

Thank you for your interest and support of our students.

Joann La Perla-Morales, President

LEARNING AND LEADERSHIP

The following pages contain profiles of some extraordinary students. They excel in the classroom but also distinguish themselves by their commitment to the community.

They represent the hundreds of MCC students who spend countless hours volunteering in organizations all over the area. Their deeds are inspirational.

LEARNING AND LEADERSHIP

She was a sure-handed, gutsy shortstop who could hit – and hit for power. She is now a sure-handed, gutsy guard who can shoot – and shoot from a distance. But there’s more to Jennifer Shereyka than star of the softball field and basketball court. She will be graduating this spring from the very-demanding Nursing program. She is a member of the South Amboy First Aid Squad. Oh, and by the way, she is also the JV softball coach of her alma mater, Cardinal McCarrick.

After graduating from high school in 2011, Jen took a softball scholarship to Queens College, where she was named to the East Coast Conference second team. She was planning to become a teacher, but soon discovered that nursing was her passion, so she transferred to Middlesex.

It was her high school basketball coach who first suggested Jen might enjoy working on the First Aid Squad.

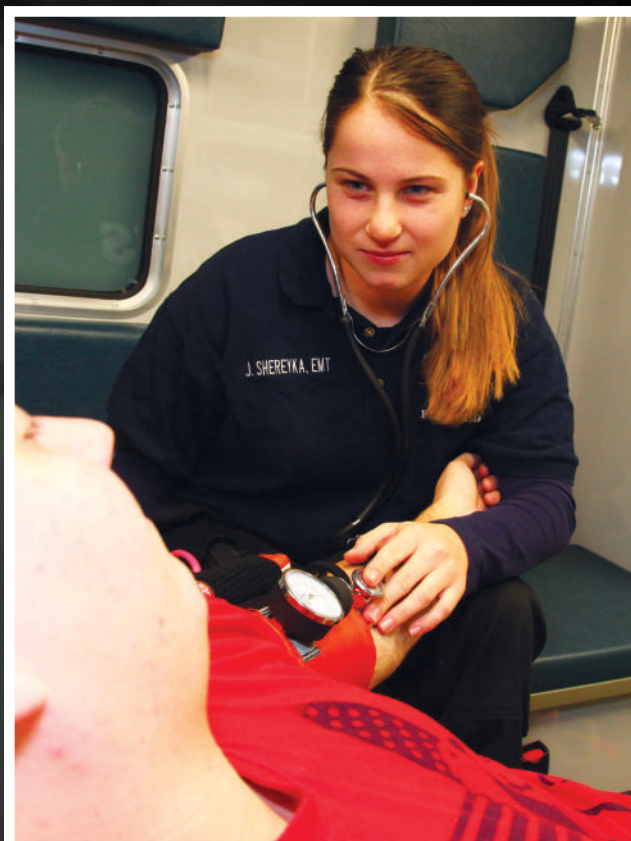

“We do a lot of community events, so its not just about answering the emergency calls. It goes beyond that,” Jen said. “You actually get the chance to be part of the community. And you reach out to the youth, trying to educate them. It’s like with nursing. You get to teach your patients. I always wanted to be a teacher. I kind of get to do both now. It’s pretty cool.”

Jen will be graduating in May and plans to go on for a Bachelor’s Degree in Nursing before starting her career. But she wants to continue with the squad.

“I enjoy it all, everything that I do, so it’s not like work,” she said. “I love being able to help someone. You get to see their face and understand you’re actually helping.”

Jen practices taking blood pressure at the South Amboy First Aid Squad.

Declon Friday started at MCC in the fall of 2013. He was making friends, enjoying his classes in criminal justice and earning a 3.99 grade point average. But something was missing. He didn't feel complete.

"I just didn't feel fulfilled," he said. "I wanted to do something that would make me a well-rounded student. I saw the Democracy House program and it looked like exactly what I was looking for. It fit. It absolutely turned out to be the best thing I've done. Because now I feel complete as a student – well rounded; I feel like I'm giving back to the community. And I'm making a difference."

Democracy House began in the mid-1990s as a way for students to engage in service and understand the needs of the community. Students perform hundreds of hours of service working with children and adults in local nonprofit organizations. Declon has volunteered with Elijah's Promise, the New Brunswick soup kitchen, Better World Café in Highland Park, and the EMPOWER program, run by MCC's New Brunswick Center, in which he mentors students from New Brunswick High School.

"I think Democracy House is awesome," he said. "It's almost like a family. You become very close. I love it. I absolutely love it."

Declon came to the United States in 2000 soon after graduating high school in his native Trinidad. He was joining his mother who lived here; eventually his siblings would come as well. He worked construction jobs for 10 years and then enrolled at MCC in the fall of 2013. He will be a United States citizen in 2015.

Declon will graduate in May of 2015 and will most likely accept a full scholarship to enter the homeland security program offered on the MCC campus by New Jersey City University. He hopes to become a New Jersey State Trooper.

"Coming to Middlesex County College was the best decision ever," he said. "And I really don't want to leave."

Declon and other Democracy House members help build a house with Habitat for Humanity in Perth Amboy.

She speaks softly, but with great determination. When Karla Oliva-Montiel talks about her plans in life, they include graduating in May with an Associate Degree in Liberal Arts/Business, and taking her 3.9 grade point average to Montclair State or The College of New Jersey for Accounting.

She'd like to work as an accountant for a large corporation. But her plans also include making her community better.

When Karla was a high school student, she participated in EMPOWER, a mentoring program for college-bound Latino youth from New Brunswick. After enrolling at MCC, she became an EMPOWER mentor, tutoring the high school students three days a week and helping them prepare for college.

"I like EMPOWER; I love EMPOWER," Karla said. "It helped me so much. I think EMPOWER is really helpful. It helps you learn what it is going to be like when you go to college. What I got from it is you learn you are not alone. That I had other people to help me."

She said Evelyn Rosa, the director of the MCC New Brunswick Center, helped her as a high school and college student, and part of her desire to be a mentor was to repay her.

"Evelyn, she was always there," Karla said. "When I came here, the one who always helped me, and was always looking out for me was Evelyn. I wanted to give back to her for everything she did. And because I like helping people."

Karla also assisted local residents prepare their taxes through the VITA program (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance), prepared and served meals at Elijah's Promise soup kitchen, walked to support domestic violence awareness, and did a day of service on Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday. She plans to continue doing volunteer work for life.

"It makes you feel better," she said. "The first time I went to Elijah's I was cleaning tables, and two or three people said 'thank you' and it felt really good. My life is school, work, or giving back to the community. So if I'm not giving back to the community, I'm not doing anything. So that's why it's important to do it.

"If we don't help the community, who's going to do it? It gives a purpose to my life."

Karla has assisted area residents file their taxes with the VITA program.

It was during the MCC Foundation's 2013 Scholarship Reception that Fizza Sulaiman heard the call to serve the community. This annual event allows Foundation donors to meet and mingle with the students who have benefited. Fizza had been awarded a Foundation Scholarship and listened intently as Brian Daugherty, the chairman of the Foundation, spoke to the crowd.

"He talked about how it is important to give back," Fizza said. "He made me realize that while I don't have funds to donate now, there are other ways I can contribute – that somehow I should serve. And I took his words to heart."

Indeed. Fizza joined the North Brunswick First Aid and Rescue Squad and spends 12 hours a week answering calls and assisting the crew chief. She has been active with Democracy House, MCC's service learning program, helping with a coat drive to benefit Jersey Cares, and a food drive for Elijah's Promise. She also assisted at a breakfast with Santa for children in Perth Amboy.

With a 3.99 grade point average, Fizza is planning to graduate in August and then attend Rutgers University. She hopes to become a physician's assistant.

But her academic and career plans almost crashed during her first class at MCC: Chemistry 121. She did poorly on the first two tests.

"I thought, 'maybe I'm not college material;

maybe I'm not smart enough,'" she said. "So I asked the professor, George Pangalos, if I should drop the class and change my major. I was kind of hoping he'd say yes. But he kept saying 'winners are not quitters.' He said study more, stop complaining. He was the key for me. He pushed me to do well. I learned so much from that."

Fizza sorts warm coats that were donated from the College community to the needy through Jersey Cares.

The Chris Pellegrino of today wouldn't recognize the Chris Pellegrino of 15 years ago. He had graduated from Old Bridge High School, took some odd jobs here and there, and hung out with his friends.

"College wasn't for me at the time," he said. "I didn't have the drive in me. When I was about 25, I decided I needed to do something with my life. And the Navy gave me that."

He spent five years in the United States Navy as an avionics technician, doing electronics work on large aircraft.

"I loved it," he said. "It's a brotherhood. Ask any vet. No matter what they said about it when they were in, they loved it. I look back on it and I wouldn't change a thing. It made me who I am today."

He left the Navy because he wanted to come home and be with his family. This time, odd jobs were not enough; he wanted a career. Chris knew he needed a college education. He came to Middlesex because it was convenient; his father is an MCC grad (class of 1983) and his brother attended as well. Chris is a computer science major and plans to become an ethical hacker to protect the nation's computer network.

"I love Middlesex," he said. "It's a great college. Small classes, small size. And it has the Center for Veterans Services."

The Center helps veterans with their military entitlements and the transition from military to civilian life – "I probably wouldn't still be in school if it wasn't for that place," he said. It is also home to the Veterans and Servicemembers Association, of which Chris is the president. A major plank of the association is community service. Members helped Habitat for Humanity build a home for a family in Perth Amboy. They visited the Menlo Park Veterans Memorial Home and socialized with veterans from World War II, the Korean War and Vietnam.

"It takes a special person to join the military in the first place," he said. "You have to want to be able to give. The giving spirit: You have to have the will to give, and that's what veterans do."

Chris visits the Veterans Home in Edison and chats with residents. He brought letters of thanks from the children in the College Child Care Center.

MEET OUR NEW FACULTY

In the fall of 2014, 10 new faculty members joined Middlesex County College. They brought expertise, passion and a love of teaching to the classroom. All hold the highest degrees in their academic field from graduate schools as near as Kean University and as far away as the University of Santo Tomas in the Philippines. They are a diverse group joining us in our fifth decade. They will help us build upon our wonderful history as they all share a common goal: student success.

CAMPUS COMMUNITY PROVIDES GENEROUS SUPPORT TO MCC STUDENTS

Over the years, many MCC alumni, employees, retirees, trustees, students and their families have inspired us by establishing a scholarship fund in their name, or that of a loved one, colleague or friend. A named scholarship fund provides a lasting legacy of service and dedication to Middlesex County College.

The involvement and support of the entire College community—faculty, staff, alumni, trustees, as well as corporate and community neighbors and friends—are key to scholarship growth. In 2013-2014, 492 students received scholarships totaling $554,000. This year we are on track to award more than $750,000 to MCC students. With your support, these numbers will continue to grow and many more students will be able to achieve their educational goals.
